

Conroe Regional Medical Center and Health South Rehabilitation in the Woodlands

Written by Chris Labod

Tuesday, 19 July 2011 17:49 -

Dr. Wright has partnered with Conroe Regional Medical Center and Health South Rehabilitation Center, and various Home Health Agencies to develop a novel multi-institutional program to help change the behaviors that put people at risk for developing stroke and heart disease. The Wright Choice Program will provide patients suffering from stroke a new approach to rehabilitation. This program works on both the physical and psychological aspects of stroke prevention. This program will provide a coordination of care that will address the patient's intellectual, emotional and environmental challenges that inhibit them from living healthier lifestyles. These changes will help to reduce their risk for stroke and heart disease. This program will combine the resources of the acute care hospital (Conroe Regional Medical Center), a rehab center (Health South) and a variety of home health care agencies.